FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

The National Eucharistic Pilgrimage completed its time in the Archdiocese of St. Louis this past Sunday with Mass at the Cathedral Basilica at 10:00 am. The Cathedral was full to capacity with a little over 1,500 people in attendance. Many joined in the procession that followed to Saint Stephen the Protomartyr for Adoration and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

This past Tuesday, the parish hosted a special BBQ for the Ministers of Hospitality and many volunteers who assisted with the Cathedral Basilica's Confirmations during the Easter Season. In addition, the many volunteers who help at our weekend and Archdiocesan Liturgies provide an essential service and make sure that each person who enters the Cathedral feels welcome. We can always use more volunteers as Ushers/Ministers of Hospitality. If you are interested, please call the rectory.

In the First Reading today, the priest Amaziah tells Amos to bring his prophesying back to his own country. They don't want to listen to him in Bethel. Amos replies that it was not his idea to become a prophet. He was a simple shepherd and a tender of fig trees. But, while he was a shepherd, the Lord plucked him out and told him to prophesy to Israel. "I am no prophet, nor a prophet's son; but I am a herdsman, and a dresser of sycamore trees, and the Lord took me from following the flock, and the Lord said to me, "Go, prophesy to my people Israel" (Am 7:14-15).

I am sure we can sympathize with his feelings. I am "only" a stay at home mom, or a student, or a shop assistant, or a factory worker, or a teacher... but, because I have been baptized, Jesus is calling me in my working and living environment to evangelize, to invite people to know him, to love him, to serve him, to follow him. And I can be sure I will not often get a warm hearing.

The message of being called and sent is echoed in the Gospel today, as the twelve apostles receive their mission from Jesus. Here we see that all the Lord's summons are an invitation to serve His Word and therefore to go beyond ourselves. Jesus invites his disciples to have only the staff and a pair of sandals. They are sent out to proclaim repentance and forgiveness of sins. They are to be rich only in the Gospel. As Jesus had said: "By this, everyone will know that you are my disciples if you have love for one another."

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

Realism with hope and prayer brings new life

In the midst of the bad, we draw inspiration from Jesus working through others

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

How would you describe our nation at its worst? The prophet Isaiah calls ancient Israel “Sodom” and “Gomorrah”—about the worst possible names he could have used! And Jesus picks up on those references, saying that the towns where He lived and performed most of His miracles were worse than Tyre, Sidon and Sodom!

My point here is not to “put the beat down” on ancient Israel or modern America. Quite the opposite: My point is to show that there’s hope even when things look bad. In fact, the final word of our readings this week, which comes from Matthew quoting Isaiah, is literally “hope.”

Think about Matthew and Zacchaeus. They were traitors, collaborators with a foreign, idolatrous and occupying nation; they were called to follow Jesus. Consider the woman who had a hemorrhage for 12 years, and the man at the pool of Bethesda who had been ill for 38 years. Both were healed by Jesus. Consider the widow of Nain’s son, and the daughter of Jairus: Both were dead! Jesus brought them back to life.

Now, in that light, consider ancient Israel at its worst — when it fully deserved to be called Sodom and Gomorrah. Consider the Gentile nations, the very definition of “not belonging to the covenant.” Did the prophets approach them with realism? Yes, absolutely. They named the sins of Israel and the sins of the Gentile nations with unblinking realism. But they did not combine realism with cynicism. Realism plus cynicism leads to despair, and despair leads to inaction. The prophets, instead, combined realism with hope. Realism plus hope leads to prayer. And prayer — as we see this week in Isaiah 38 — calls down the action of God. And the action of God changes the direction of things – both individually and nationally.

As we prepare for an election season can we draw inspiration from that?

The catechetical situation of the Church in the United States in the 1970s was a time of darkness — what might rightly be called a “catechetical desert.” But some great lights have come from those who were raised in that desert! People who lived through that catechetical desert created the resources they never had. The Church today is flowering with catechetical riches because their realism and hope inspired something new.

The political situation of America today, from a Catholic perspective, looks like a “political desert.”

Brothers and sisters, that’s where we can be tempted to combine realism with cynicism. But let’s name that for what it is — a temptation that leads to despair and inaction. The readings this week teach us a different lesson: to combine realism with hope and ask God to change the desert into a garden.

So I call on the Church: Combine realism with hope and pray!

I call especially on the young Church: Combine realism with hope, then begin to imagine and create new political resources! Thirty, 40, 50 years from now, may the Church be flowering with political resources because you lived through the desert, and your realism and hope created something new.

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

"He instructed them to take nothing for the journey but a walking stick – no food, no sack, no money in their belts."
Mark 6:8

Imagine taking nothing but a stick when you go on a trip. The Apostles must have really trusted in God's providential care. Think of all the material things "we can't live without" in today's world. We make our life's journey more difficult because of all the material baggage that we drag along. Putting God first in everything and putting our money and possessions second gives us freedom because we don't become "slaves" to wanting to acquire more things.

Men of the Cathedral

The Men of the Cathedral cordially invite all parishioners and visitors to join them with Adoration of the Holy Eucharist on Tuesday, July 30th at 6 PM.

Please take this opportunity to join other men and women in personal prayer at Adoration to ask God to intercede and aid those who are experiencing personal difficulties and for our city, state, country, and the world that good will prevail over evil and all will find their way to God.

Adoration will begin promptly at 6 PM. Confessions will be heard during Adoration.

All men are invited to drinks, dinner, and fellowship in Boland Hall immediately after the conclusion of Adoration. A suggested donation of $20 is appreciated.

What is stopping you from spending time with our Lord? Please consider attending and making this prayerful evening a family event. Invite your family and friends to celebrate Christ through Adoration.

For dinner reservations, please contact Michael Weisbrod at 314-918-2893 or michael.weisbrod@rcfstl.org by Monday July, 29th.
